

CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Northern Ireland Energy Holdings (NIEH) is the mutual company that owns and manages the electricity and gas transmission infrastructure from GB to NI and gas transmission infrastructure to Belfast. NIEH's primary objective is to reduce energy costs for the consumer, which it has achieved to outstanding effect in the six years since its establishment. NIEH is a very "lean" professional business with a small executive team supported by a first-class Board.

NIEH is seeking to appoint a Chief Executive who will lead the Group, drive the further development of NIEH and ensure the achievement of performance targets that ultimately drive the efficiency of energy provision to consumers. Central to the role will be the management of relationships, building on NIEH's reputation and promoting its values and strategies to its diverse range of stakeholders.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong track record of achievement at director/senior management level in an engineering, utility or asset management organisation that incorporates the safe, efficient management and on-going operation and maintenance of significant physical assets/infrastructure projects in a highly regulated or highly contractual environment. You will demonstrate a sound understanding of financial markets with experience and knowledge of the market drivers when raising and maintaining finance for long-term capital projects. Ideally you will have strong knowledge and experience of the energy industry (electricity and/or gas) including licensing, regulated markets and industry drivers.

This exciting role has significant levels of responsibility and offers the opportunity to make a major contribution to the cost of energy for the Northern Ireland consumer. To apply, please forward a professional resume quoting reference 332 to: Ciaran Sheehan, Managing Partner, Clarendon Executive, 12b Clarendon Road, Clarendon Dock, Belfast BT1 3BG
